

Title of the workshop: 'Leading change' – Taking charge of your life

Brief note:

All of us have our own aspirations, our own dreams; however, we are confronted with situations that directly impact the fulfillments of these very dreams and aspirations. So, where do we fit in it and what role can we play to create our own future and career?

The six days workshop on "Leading change – taking charge of your life" will help you understand and learn techniques on how to break habitual patterns and systems that have delivered the world we live in and finally learn to take your own decisions and lead your career.

The six days workshop will be totally experiential based and will involve a lot of activities.
